

Obituary-II

Late Prof Khalida Adeeb Khanum Akhtar

My heart is fluttering as I am writing this obituary for the Legend our founder editor in chief Prof Khalida Adeeb Khanam Akhtar who met her creator on 16.10.15 leaving us in utter shock and dismay. It is the world's hardest task to accept the fact that she is no more. I just am thinking aloud about life? Although she lived for a good 80 years and those also full of activity and productivity but she was one and only one. Nobody can match her intelligence her aesthetic sense, her care for patients, her writing of patient notes, her mental alertness, her memory, her clothes, her choice of jewellery, her bags, her shoes, her passion for the profession, her passion for medical writing, her English grammar and punctuation, her love for her students, her love for the postgraduates, her teaching and training, her humane and soft nature, her breathtaking lectures, her unconditional support of family, her strength when she lost her beloved daughter Zakia, and her further strength when she lost her only son Khalid, looked like an Iron Lady but possessed heart made of wax, most intelligent but the most humble person, an artist, a master in water and oil painting, sewing, in interior designing, the most upright person and above all THE MOST WONDERFUL HUMAN BEING I HAVE EVER KNOWN.

Always did an unexpected and unsolicited act of kindness to the most unfortunate when they were least expecting anything from the world. How could she just leave us and create a vacuum which can never be filled. But we all have to return to ALLAH Lucky are those who remain alive in the hearts of so many who will always cherish their memories. We shall miss you at every step. May you be blessed always and attain the highest place in Jannat and may ALLAH SWT give strength to the family who are totally lost and heart broken at this moment.

She was my teacher in undergraduate and she was so impressive that I decided to do obs/gynae because of her and for the rest of my life I became her student. Like so many others I was and am in love with her and she was mentor of countless doctors. May Allah bless her soul and make all her students' sadqa-e- Jariah for her.
